PREFACE.

Regarding the question of tariff duties on imported merchandise as one of the most important of the regulations of commerce upon which Congress has to take action, and one which affects or is supposed to affect the interests of all classes, consumers as well as producers, appreciating the time, trouble, and labor required to collect data relating to the tariff and questions appertaining thereto, the numerous reports necessary from which to obtain comparative facts, and the demand for a full compilation of imports for a series of years is increasing more and more every year, to aid those whose duty it is to legislate upon the subject this compilation has been prepared.

This compilation is made from the annual Reports of Commerce and Navigation, and from the account contained therein entitled Home Consumption and Imposts.

Previous to 1867 (and only from 1862 to 1867) the account of impost, as prepared by the Register of the Treasury, gives the quantities and no values of articles on which specific duties were imposed; those paying ad valorem rates, only the aggregate values and no quantities, and only on those paying both rates are the quantities and values given; hence to combine in this work the consumption previous to 1867 of this partial information would not be desirable or satisfactory. This compilation begins with 1867 and ends with 1893, exhibiting the quantities, values, rates of duty, the average cost of the article, and the specific rates of duty reduced to their equivalent ad valorem rate; also summaries of the leading classes or groups of articles, list of customs districts and ports of delivery, with the value and amount of duty received and expense at each; also statement of articles admitted free of duty, of merchandise withdrawn from and transferred under bond to manufacturing warehouses, materials used in the construction and equipment of vessels, salt withdrawn from warehouses for the purpose of curing fish, quantities and values of articles admitted free of duty, under treaty, from the Dominion of Canada and Hawaiian Islands, and supplies for merchant vessels (act of June 26, 1884); also statement of aggregate values, rates, and amount of duty received in the United States.

There are, in addition to the above, the following new statements:

1. Values and duties, of withdrawals, and immediate entries.

2. Receipts and expenditures at the ports of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Chicago, Baltimore, and New Orleans, and "all other ports" from 1870 to 1893, inclusive.

3. By States.

4. By geographical divisions.

Since the edition of 1884, two important tariff acts, that of March 3, 1883, and of October 1, 1890, have become laws, owing to the numerous and perplexing classifications of each act and in order to meet the requirements of those who have use for this work I have endeavored, by referring to the articles in numerical order to secure convenient reference, so as to compare the effect of the amount of importations or rates of duty, under each tariff act.

The alphabetical arrangement has been followed as far as possible, a table of contents and a full index is given.

For the manufacturer and importer this work will be found to be very valuable as an aid to facilitate and compare easily, without referring to a dozen or more books, the increase or decrease of importation, and the effect by a change in the tariffs may be noted; and with special reference to its adaptation to the requirements of legislators as well as consumer and producer, this work is presented.

Respectfully,

CHARLES H. EVANS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 14, 1894.

No. 1498.—COTTON MACHINERY (IRON).

Previous to 1873 cotton machinery was returned by the collectors of customs under the heading of "Iron, manufactures of, n. o. s." The act of June 6, 1872, making a reduction of 10 per cent. of duty on "Iron, and steel, and manufactures of," excepted cotton machinery. There was then opened a separate account for it, and all importations were properly returned under it, until the repeal of the 10 per cent reduction by act of March 3, 1875. Since then, it is thought, most of the importations have been returned as previous to 1873.

NOTE.—The amount of duty received as given in this statement is the revenue only from foreign merchandise and will not agree with that published by the Register of the Treasury, as the latter includes also the tonnage tax and receipts from other sources.

Coin and bullion excluded from this account since 1879 by the Bureau of Statistics. I have put them in for convenience of comparison; they are not extended into the table, and do not enter into the calculations.

The greater portion of the duty entered as discriminating duty on free merchandise was from internal-revenue tax laid upon articles exported and returned. The following table shows the amount for each year received as internal-revenue tax:

1882.	$169,373.49	1884.	$239,530.56	1886.	$871,245.12	1888.	$2,377,823.05	1890.	$1,102,615.93	1892.	$908,744.24

NOTE.—There was no account kept or published for the years 1867 and 1868, and only the values of each district for the years 1869 and 1870 are published. The amount of duty, and average rate of duty, can not be given of them.

The average rate of duty is calculated upon the amount of duties derived from the regular rates, and does not include the amount of additional or discriminating duties.

The values of materials for the construction and equipment of vessels, articles transferred to manufacturing warehouses, and ship supplies are not included.

Salt used in curing fish was classed previous to 1886 as a free article. Since then the Bureau of Statistics has classed it as a dutiable article. The value of the same is included in the dutiable values in these tables. In computing the average rate of duty the value of the salt has been excluded.

The act of Congress given under each district refers to the date of the establishment of the same.

Data previous to the year 1874 for the expense for collecting the revenue is not published so as to show the expense at each port for the fiscal year.

The data for the following tables of receipts from and expenditures for collecting the revenue from customs were obtained as follows—the values and duties as are given in this work are taken from the Annual Reports of Commerce and Navigation, and the amount of expenses from the Annual Finance Reports.

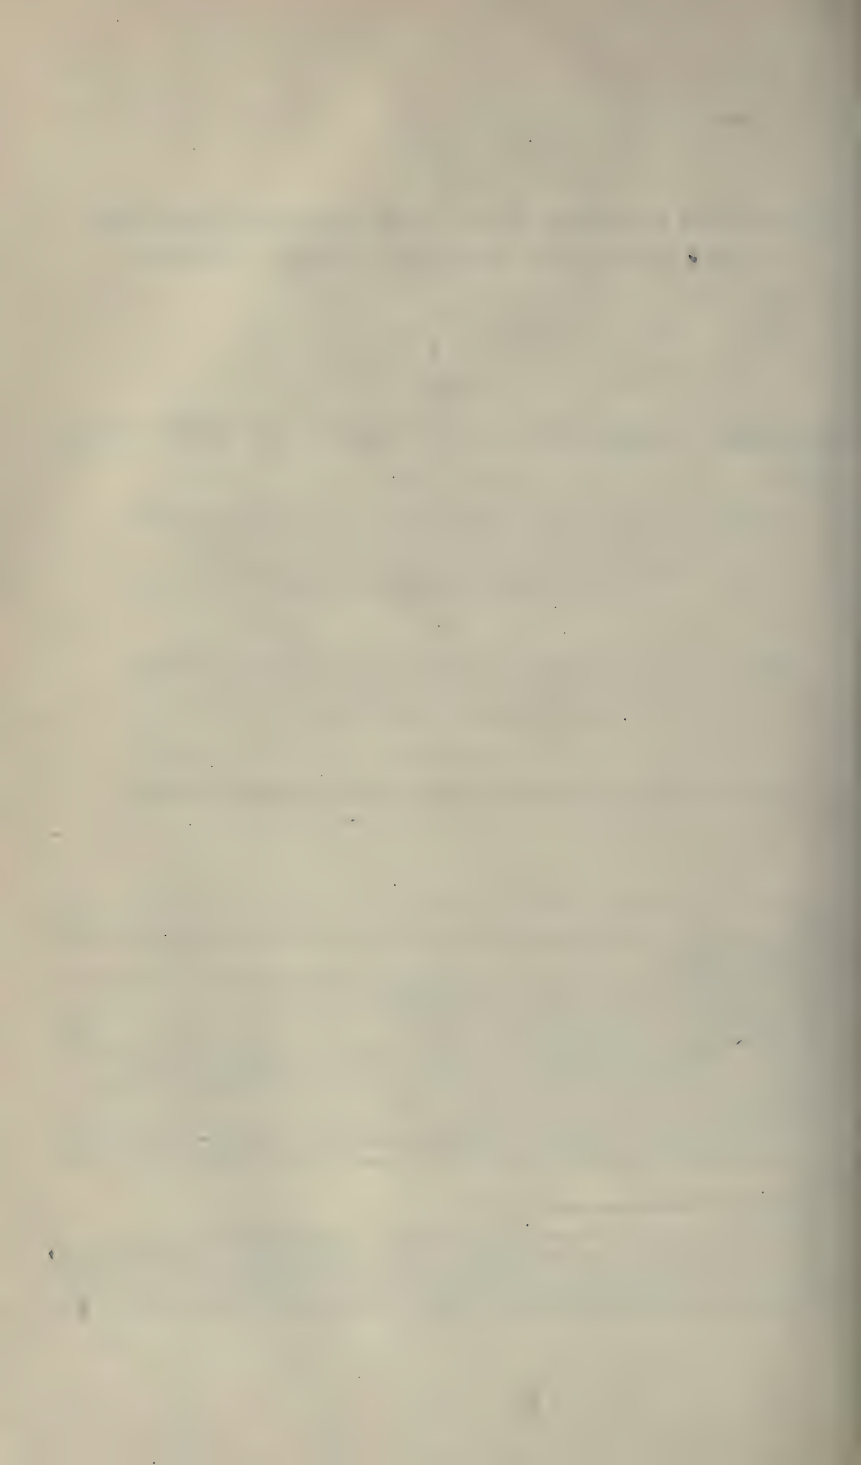

The tables given are:

1st. By customs districts and ports of delivery.

2d. By States.

3d. By geographical divisions—Eastern, Middle, Southern, Western, and Pacific States.

The table of "Expenses for collecting the Revenue from Customs" exhibits the amount distributed among the districts, and the amount of miscellaneous expenses, that are not distributed. The amount of expense used in the preparation of the various tables is the amount that is distributed. The amount of the miscellaneous expenses if distributed between the districts would be only about one-fifth of one per cent; it was deemed advisable for statistical purposes to exclude from the calculations.

Additional, discriminating, and penal duties.	Rate of duty.
1. There shall be levied, collected, and paid on all goods, wares, and merchandise of the growth or produce of the countries east of the Cape of Good Hope (except wool, raw cotton, and raw silk, as reeled from the cocoon, or not further advanced than tram, thrown, or organzine) when imported from places west of the Cape of Good Hope, a duty of ten per centum ad valorem in addition to the duties imposed on any such article when imported directly from the place or places of their growth or production. (Sec. 2501, Rev. Stats.).....	10 per cent on value of the goods.
2. A discriminating duty of ten per centum ad valorem, in addition to the duties imposed by law, shall be levied, collected, and paid on all goods, wares, and merchandise which shall be imported in vessels not of the United States. But this discriminating duty shall not apply to goods, wares, and merchandise which shall be imported in vessels not of the United States, entitled, by treaty or any act of Congress, to be entered in the ports of the United States on payment of the same duties as shall then be paid on goods, wares, and merchandise imported in vessels of the United States. (Sec. 2502, Rev. Stats.) [Applies to goods imported in Spanish vessels only.].....	10 per cent on value of the goods.
3. The owner, consignee, or agent of any merchandise which has been actually purchased or procured otherwise than by purchase, at the time, and not afterward, when he shall produce his original invoice to the collector and make and verify his written entry of his merchandise, may make such addition in the entry to the cost or value given in the invoice as in his opinion may raise the same to the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise, at the period of exportation to the United States, in the principal markets of the country from which the same has been imported; and the collector, within whose district the same may be imported or entered, may cause such actual market value or wholesale price to be appraised, and if such appraised value shall exceed by ten per centum or more the value so declared in the entry, then, in addition to the duties imposed by law on the same, there shall be collected a duty of twenty per centum ad valorem on such appraised value. The duty shall not, however, be assessed upon an amount less than the invoice or entered value. (Sec. 2900, Rev. Stats.).....	20 per cent on value of the goods.
All additions made to the entered value of merchandise for charges shall be regarded as part of the actual value of such merchandise, and if such addition shall exceed by ten per centum the value declared in the entry, in addition to the duties imposed by law, there shall be collected a duty of twenty per centum on such value. (Sec. 2908, Rev. Stats.).....	20 per cent on value of the goods.
But nothing contained in this and the preceding section (sec. 2907, Rev. Stats.) shall apply to long combing or carpet wools costing twelve cents or less per pound, unless the charges so added shall carry the cost above twelve cents per pound, in which case one cent per pound duty shall be added. (Sec. 2908, Rev. Stats.).....	1 cent per pound.
4. Where the actual value to be appraised, estimated, and ascertained, as hereinbefore stated, of any merchandise imported into the United States, and subject to any ad valorem duty, or whereon the duty is regulated by or directed to be imposed or levied on the value of the square yard, or other parcel or quantity thereof, shall exceed by ten per centum or more the invoice value, then, in addition to the duty imposed by law on the same, there shall be levied and collected on such merchandise twenty per centum of the duty imposed on the same, when fairly invoiced. (Sec. 2909, Rev. Stats.).....	20 per cent of the duty imposed by law when fairly invoiced.
5. Any merchandise deposited in bond in any public or private bonded warehouse may be withdrawn for consumption within one year from the date of original importation on payment of the duties and charges to which it may be subject by law at the time of such withdrawal; and after the expiration of one year from the date of original importation, and until the expiration of three years from such date, any merchandise in bond may be withdrawn for consumption on payment of the duties assessed on the original entry and charges, and an additional duty of ten per centum of the amount of such duties and charges. (Sec. 2970, Rev. Stats.).....	10 per cent on the amount of the duties and charges.

REMARKS.

The tables herein presented exhibit the quantities and values of the articles the growth, produce, and manufacture of the United States, the States from and the countries to which they were exported from 1790 to 1893, inclusive.

The documents annually presented to Congress are contained in so many volumes and the statistical matter therein is so voluminous that it can not be made the subject of instant reference.

It is generally known that no department of the Government is in possession of complete files of these documents, and the scarcity and demand for statistics relating to our export trade induced the author to prepare and collate the statements in a form that would be convenient and useful and that the details should be preserved.

The author does not intend to fill the pages with mere estimates, opinions, and speculations. Much might be written which would swell the work, without adding a single fact. He has endeavored to exhibit, in a plain and simple form, information whereby the export trade can be ascertained for any number of years, and will be gratified if his labor in that direction is fulfilled.

In 1818 Mr. Adam Seybert published "Statistical Annals," in which he says:

The state of civilized society and the resources of nations are the tests by which we can ascertain the tendency of the Government. It is to the condition of the people, in relation to their increase, their moral and physical circumstances, their happiness and comfort, their genius and industry, that we must look for the proofs of mild and free or of a cruel and despotic government. Where agriculture, the arts, and manufactures flourish; where domestic improvements have been encouraged; where the more useful branches of education have been extensively cultivated; where commerce and navigation have been promoted; where the civil institutions are founded on justice, mercy, and equality; where the laws are of mild character and the execution of them is enforced; where there is liberty of conscience and freedom of speech and of the press—there it is that we can find the demonstrations of the prosperity and happiness of a people. In proportion as such principles and practices have been adopted, we estimate the wealth, power, and glory of a nation.

Practical and useful information must be furnished to our people to enable them to compete with other nations in their laudable career. One of the objects of the author is to place, in this compilation, the materials for sound thought and the foundation for correct action within the grasp of every citizen. Correct and extensive statistical information is no less necessary to the mass of the people, in order that they may appreciate and understand legislation, than it is for the legislator to enable him to comprehend and promote the best interests of his constituents.

The tables are designed to constitute a comprehensive comparison of the exports of articles, the growth, production, and manufacture of the United States, to all foreign countries for a period of one hundred and four years, in which every important article, either as regards its value or as a peculiar product, is stated as fully as the returns to the Treasury Department will permit.

In the preparation of these tables the statistics for the years 1789 to 1820 have been taken from the "American State Papers," Pitkins and Seybert's annals of statistics, and from 1820 to 1893 from the annual reports on Commerce and Navigation, showing the quantity and value of our exports of domestic products for each year and each decade; the average value per unit of quantity is given wherever practicable; they have been thoroughly revised and recomputed; the differing classifications used in said compilations have been arranged and made to conform to the classification as published in the Commerce and Navigation.

The large sums given in the publication of exports from 1864 to the present as values of "unenumerated articles" have been carefully examined, and all important articles have been separated and placed in their proper order; these tables, therefore, enumerate a large number of articles not given in the annual publications of Commerce and Navigation. There is also a long list of unenumerated articles given. Prior to 1864 there was no list of "unenumerated" published. Many of the articles returned as unenumerated have been placed in the enumerated class.

Where they are first enumerated it must not be supposed that was the first export of the same, they being included in the unenumerated or "all other."

Tables are given of the total value of exports to each foreign country as well as the total value exported from each State, also summaries of the articles, "raw or unmanufactured," "partially manufactured," and "manufactured," and other data not necessary to enumerate here.

It is fallacious to estimate the commercial prosperity of a nation by the moneyed value of the exports. The quantities of the articles exported will be a more accurate test of the capacity and industry of our population than can be had from their estimated money value. The same article in different years has varied more than 25 per cent in its value.

In the year 1791 the first shipment of cotton of American growth was exported from the United States and amounted only to 19,200 pounds; prior to 1802 cotton from other countries was included with that from the United States; no discrimination was made of its origin.

The exports returned for 1809 were made in fact during the six and a half months ending on the 30th of September, 1809, exportations being suspended by the embargo until the 15th day of March, 1809.

In the tables published in the "American State Papers" from 1791 to 1817 only the quantities of the articles, without values, are stated; the values given from 1803 to 1816, inclusive, are taken from "Pitkin's Statistics."

Prior to 1803 no distinction was made between domestic and foreign exports. From 1790 to 1803 I have given the quantity and value of those articles whose origin left no doubt of their domestic production; the total value of all exports is given for that period.

In 1790 the aggregate of our exports, foreign and domestic, was estimated at $19,012,044; in 1791 their value was increased by $1,741,057, or about one-eleventh of their amount in 1790; in 1792 the aggregate amounted to $26,109,572; the increase in this year was $5,356,474, more than one-fifth of the value of the preceding year.

In 1795 the total value of exports was estimated at $67,064,097. Of this amount the domestic production was estimated at $40,764,097, and the foreign production at $26,300,000. In 1796 the foreign production reexported was only $2,850,208 less in value than the domestic exports. In 1797 the foreign production exported greatly surpassed that of domestic articles, and in 1806 was estimated at $59,643,558, or it exceeded the value of domestic exports by more than one-fifth, or 22.47 per cent. In 1805 the foreign production exported arrived at the maximum, and amounted to $60,283,236. In that year it exceeded the value of domestic production exported in any preceding year.

The periodical progress of our export trade is exhibited by the following statement, viz:

The values of articles exported from 1861 to 1878, inclusive, are given in mixed values, i. e., gold and currency.

A table prepared by E. B. Elliott, esq., of the Treasury, is given in the back of the book, exhibiting the gold value of currency, and the currency value of gold from 1861 to 1879; also a table of weight of a bushel of certain articles as required by the laws of the different States. It would be advisable for the Government to enact a law whereby the weight per bushel, pounds per ton, etc., so that there may be uniformity in regard to returns by collectors of customs.

The last page of the general statement by articles shows the value of gold and silver coin and bullion, the gold value and mixed value of merchandise, the amount and per cent of exports shipped in American and foreign vessels, and the average per cent per capita of exports.

EXPORTS FROM THE AMERICAN COLONIES.

Table No. 1.—SHOWING THE VALUE OF THE EXPORTS FROM THE AMERICAN COLONIES TO GREAT BRITAIN FROM 1697 TO 1789, INCLUSIVE (WHICH COMPRISED ALMOST THE ONLY EXPORTS FROM THIS COUNTRY PRIOR TO THE REVOLUTION).

The following table exhibits an interesting view of the trade between the American colonies and the mother country from 1697 to 1789, which, in fact, embraced almost the only commerce of this country prior to the Revolution. Prior to the adoption of the present Government of the United States it was not practicable to collect the data for statistical purposes: the exports were under the control of the respective colonies, and each was sovereign and independent of the other.

* Estimated (except Census years) by E. B. Elliott, esq., Treasury Department.

† The exports from the port of Savannah, Ga., are not included; they were about $2,250,000, which would make the domestic exports for 1806 about forty millions and a half.

‡ The exports for this year were made, in fact, during the six months and a half ending on the 30th September, 1809: exportsations were suspended by the embargo till the 15th day of March, 1809.

INDIGO.

Indigo was one of the principal articles of produce and export from South Carolina and Georgia before the planting of cotton in those States became an object of so much importance. The culture of it was introduced into South Carolina about the year 1741 or 1742, and that State is indebted to a lady for the introduction of this valuable plant. An account of the manner of its introduction is given by Dr. Ramsay in his history of South Carolina, and serves to show, among other instances, how much a nation is oftentimes indebted for its wealth to the exertions and perseverance of a single individual.

The second great staple of Carolina (says the doctor) was indigo. Its original native country was Hindostan, but it had been naturalized in the West India Islands, from which it was introduced into Carolina by Miss Eliza Lucas, the mother of Maj. Gen. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney.

"Her father, George Lucas, governor of Antigua, observing her fondness for the vegetable world, frequently sent to her tropical seeds and fruits, to be planted for her amusement on his plantation at Wappo. Among others he sent her some indigo seed as a subject of experiment.

"She planted it in March, 1741 or 1742: it was destroyed by frost. She repeated the experiment in April; this was cut down by a worm. Notwithstanding these discouragements she persevered, and her third attempt was successful. Governor Lucas, on hearing that the plant had seeded and ripened, sent from Monserrat a man by the name of Cromwell, who had been accustomed to the making of indigo, and engaged him at high wages to come to Carolina and let his daughter see the whole process for extracting the dye from the weed. This professed indigo-maker built vats on Wappoo Creek, and there made the first indigo that was formed in Carolina. It was but indifferent.

"Cromwell repented of his engagement, as being likely to injure his own country, made a mystery of the business, and, with the hope of deceiving, injured the process by throwing in too much lime. Miss Lucas watched him carefully, and also engaged Mr. Deveau to superintend his operation. Notwithstanding the duplicity of Cromwell, a knowledge of the process was obtained. Soon after Miss Lucas had completely succeeded in this useful project she married Charles Pinckney, and her father made a present of all the indigo on his plantation, the fruit of her industry, to her husband. The whole was saved for seed. Part was planted by the proprietor next year at Ashapoo, and the remainder given away to his friends in small quantities for the same purpose. They all succeeded. From that time the culture of indigo was common, and in a year or two it became an article of export."

In the year 1748 (21 of George II) a bounty of six pence on the pound on plantation indigo, when it was worth three-fourths of the price of the best French indigo, was granted by the British Parliament. This increased its culture in South Carolina, and in 1754 216,924 pounds of indigo were exported from that province. From November, 1760, to September, 1761, 399,360 pounds were exported, and shortly before the American Revolution the export amounted to 1,107,660 pounds.

In the year 1794 1,550,880 pounds were exported from the United States, being the greatest quantity exported in any one year. Probably a considerable part of this was foreign indigo.

Since the planting of cotton has become general in South Carolina and Georgia, the culture of indigo has been, in a great measure, neglected. (See Ramsay's History and Macpherson's Annals of Commerce.)

VALUES BY STATES.

VALUES OF ARTICLES, THE GROWTH, PRODUCTION, AND MANUFACTURE OF THE UNITED STATES, EXPORTED FROM EACH STATE

DURING THE

FISCAL YEARS ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 1790, TO 1842,

AND

JUNE 30, 1843, TO 1850, INCLUSIVE.

NOTE.—We must not suppose that the productions reported as the exports of any one State are exclusively the growth, production, or manufacture of the State for which they are returned. The intercourse and exchanges among the several States are so constant as to make it impossible to ascertain with accuracy the origin of the merchandise exported. In a national view such a discrimination is not material, however gratifying it might be to the most productive States to ascertain the extent of their surplus industry. The products of Kentucky, Tennessee, and other inland States are transported to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and other ports, and from those ports exported to foreign countries, while those of the Southern States swell the lists of all the Middle and Northern States.

It is rarely that the productions of the Northern States are exported from Southern ports to foreign countries.

Table No. 6.—STATEMENT SHOWING THE VALUES OF DOMESTIC EXPORTS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES FROM THE SEVERAL STATES AND TERRITORIES OF THE UNITED STATES, ANNUALLY AND BY DECADES, FROM OCTOBER 1, 1790, TO JUNE 30, 1850.

VALUES, BY STATES, 1851 TO 1893.

---

DOMESTIC EXPORTS.

VALUES OF ARTICLES, THE GROWTH, PRODUCTION, AND MANUFACTURE OF THE UNITED STATES,
EXPORTED FROM EACH STATE

DURING THE

FISCAL YEARS ENDED JUNE 30, 1851 TO 1893, INCLUSIVE.

NOTE.—We must not suppose that the value of the productions reported as the exports of any one State are exclusively the growth, production, or manufacture of the State for which they are returned. the intercourse and exchanges among the several States are so constant as to make it impossible to ascertain with accuracy the origin of the merchandise reported.

In a national view such a discrimination is not material, however gratifying it might be to the most productive States to ascertain the extent of their surplus industry.

The produce of Kentucky, Tennessee, and other inland States are transported to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and other ports, and from those ports exported to foreign countries, while those of the Southern States swell the lists of all the Middle, Northern, and Eastern States.

It is rarely that the productions of the Northern States are exported from Southern ports to foreign countries.

The average rates of gold and currency for each month, as given in the above tables, were obtained as follows: Four daily quotations of the rates of gold at New York, viz, the opening, closing, highest, and lowest, were recorded, from which a daily average was made, and the average rate for each month was prepared from these daily averages.
